Special Notice

I have been advising the Topeka property owners all along (thru the press) of the impending advance in price of Elaborated Fire-Proof Roofing.

Here is a copy of the official notice just received from Elaborated headquarters.

July 2nd, 1918

Elaborated Roofing Co. Branch Managers.

Gentlemen: There is to be an advance of around 50c per square in the price of roofing July 15th, and every Elaborated office throughout the U. S. where the freight rate is over 25c per 100 lbs. should get at least $7.00 per square laid on the roof, as the price of wool felt has jumped to $108 per ton net, Factory Labor is now drawing 45c per hour and the price of Asphalt has jumped to $29 per ton net, and on top of all this. freight rates have advanced 25 per cent. So adjust your price so as to meet these conditions.

W. W. Lewis, Manager

Note—To any Topeka property owner whom I have submitted a price to re-roof their house since May 15th, I will yet make good my offer, providing such orders reach me not later than July 15th, after that date I will have to follow the market.

be taken to remedy it." This is in further quotation of Mr. Emmerling.

"There is another co-related feature of importance. This is that the normal domestic peak load which now perplexes many gas companies in winter, and sconer or later will prove a thorn in the sides of all, is directly responsible for the lowering of domestic pressures to a point which has led to the public dissatisfaction, now very outspoken in various communities.

"We have the unanimous pronouncements of the consuming public that preferential service be given to domestic consumers as against industrial consumption. In this, generally speaking, the gas companies have not only concurred, but made their industrial contracts subservient to domestic consumption. Since this seems to be a settled policy, it would appear that the only logical thing for natural gas companies to do would be to set about to alleviate the burdensomeness of domestic peak load requirements in extreme winter weather."
